Writer Discusses Income Tax Changes Due on Next Reports

Clamor over the business-at-fault sections of the just-passed income tax law almost obscured the personal clauses. However, those are many and important. The next return isn't due until April 15, 1955, but meanwhile the taxpayer may be altering his plans.

If he's thinking of retiring and wondering if his income will stretch, he can check his calculations against the new exemption from the 20 per cent basic tax. It applies to the first $200 a year of income from pensions, annuities, rents, interest or dividends. He gets that exemption after 65 if he's in private employ, at any age if he has been a municipal, state, or non-military federal worker, and has retired.

Medical expenses begin to be deductible after they pass 5 per cent of income. Old level was 5 per cent. Maximum medical deductions are up to $10,000 from $2500.

If you have been watching to make sure that Sony's earnings more than $599.99 before you yank him off his summer job, relax. As long as you contribute more than half his support, he's still a deduction.

If you were supporting a helpless person who wasn't close kin, you got no deduction. Now you can. Where the family chipped in to support a dependent, no one got the exemption. Now you pro-rate it. The dependent has had to live in your home to make you eligible; now he or she can live anywhere.

Women of any marital status, and widowers or divorced fathers, can now deduct up to $600 a year of baby-sitting or nursery-school costs for small children. Moreover, widows or widowers retain the full married-couple exemption for two years after the death of the spouse.

CANNY RESEARCH—Newest monument to U. S. industry's reliance on research is a multi-million-dollar scientific and development center now a-building at Barrington, Ill., outside Chicago. Beginning in 1955, American Can Company will use this new modern laboratory to house its staff of more than 150 scientists and technologists.

This company has a long-standing tradition of research-mindedness, which has brought many container advances. Beer cans, cans for motor oil, flat-top per milk containers, cans for liquid detergents and for tennis balls—these are familiar examples of Canco's faith in the power of science to make markets and profits grow where nothing grew before.

Just this year Canco perfected and put into production a specially designed flat-top can for soft drinks. This new market may mean twelve billion cans of soft drinks a year for the industry, if experience with beer cans is duplicated in the soda pop realm.

THINGS TO COME—An electronic truck scale, especially useful to highway load limit checkers, weighs each axle load and computes total weight without the truck's having to stop. "Sew Handy" is a seamstress' aid kit containing a needle, thread, small blade, stitch-pick, and hem ruler. A polyethylene door for a styrene bread-box rolls up and down like an old-fashioned desk top. A five-inch aluminum spirit level has a clip like a fountain pen to secure it in a pocket.

PRODUCTION PICKUP—The production is expected to pick up to substantial levels in the later months of this year, according to B. F. Goodrich Co. forecasts. Tire inventories, which usually reach their peak in April or May and gradually decline until October, are already at an ebb because of strikes in the industry.

Another reason to expect higher tire output lies in the acceptance of tubeless tires as original equipment of some 1955 automobiles. While more than 2 million tubeless tires have been sold since BFG introduced them in 1947, all of them have gone into the replacement market. August and September tires are equipped with these tires at the factories.

So, even though other companies are now producing versions of the tubeless tire, there hasn't been time to warehouse large stocks of them. Production will be stepped up to meet automobile makers' demands.

STILL GROWING—Ten days ago the Census Bureau announced that this year's election day should find more than 100 million Americans of voting age. Countering the trend is a year-to-year reduction in June brides: 176,000 in 1954, 156,000 in 1953.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Last year oil companies overstocked heating oils, had to cut prices in November. This year stocks are in line; prices may rise. Department store business holds up well, compared to 1953, except in Philadelphia. There comparisons suffer because of a pre-sales-tax rush for big-ticket items last year. German and Russian bids for Canadian rye are driving up prices on American markets. Steel operations edged up a tiny bit last week. Companies hope a bigger upswing is ahead now that valuations are over and auto companies are set on 1955 models.
